

Noah

Meet Noah, a loving, talkative, and helpful 13-year-old with a curious mind and a big heart. He enjoys asking questions and learning how things work, especially through science experiments involving electricity. Thoughtful and empathetic, Noah notices when others may need kindness or encouragement. He is comfortable playing independently and also enjoys spending time with friends, going for walks, and playing outside. Noah brings a sense of humor to the people around him; although he may be quiet when meeting someone new, he enjoys cracking jokes and sharing plenty of questions once he feels comfortable. He also appreciates good food—from chef salad to chicken nuggets, macaroni and cheese, and pizza—and thinks pancakes are a great way to start the morning.

Noah hopes for a caring, dependable family who will take time to get to know him, encourage his curiosity, share everyday experiences, and help him feel secure and connected. Consistent routines, patient guidance, and adults who celebrate his strengths will help him continue to grow. Maintaining the important connections in Noah's life will also be a meaningful part of supporting him.
